Narrative 4 (N4) Ireland) CHILD PROTECTION POLICY

Scope

This policy is applicable to all staff employed by Narrative 4 and also applies to all volunteers, including writers and artists, as well as at both centre-based programmes and external Narrative 4-sponsored events and activities. It is the responsibility of the Regional Director to ensure that every new staff member and volunteer:

3. Receives training on the subject matter

CODE OF BEHAVIOUR FOR STAFF

We expect everyone working with children in a paid or voluntary capacity for Narrative 4 to take every possible precaution to avoid situations that could be misinterpreted and/or a breach of either the Child Protection Policy or Health and Safety Policy. By setting out appropriate and inappropriate behaviour, this code will not only help to protect children, but also staff, interns and volunteers at Narrative 4

All Narrative 4 staff and free-lancers must respect and implement the following codes of behaviour when dealing with children and young people:

REPORTING PROCEDURES

WHO TO CONTACT ABOUT ISSUES RELATED TO CHILD PROTECTION AND VULNERABLE ADULT WELFARE

James Lawlor has been designated as the person to contact if you have an issue or concern about any aspect of a child's or young person's safety and welfare. It is the responsibility of this person to support and advise staff about policy and procedures in relation to child protection and to ensure that procedures are followed. It is also the responsibility of the Designated Liaison Person to liaise with the Health Service Executive or Gardaí where appropriate.

James Lawlor can be contacted at Narrative 4, 58 O'Connell Street, Limerick.

Everyone must be alert to the possibility that children with whom they are in contact may be suffering from abuse or neglect. There are four recognised forms of child abuse: neglect, physical abuse, emotional abuse and sexual abuse¹. It's not your responsibility to decide whether a child is being abused or neglected, but you must act on your concerns. We do understand that it may be very difficult for you to take this step but Narrative 4 will support anyone who raises a legitimate concern in good faith. The protection and welfare of the child must always be the paramount concern.

RECORDING PROCEDURES

Narrative 4 has a system and mechanism for recording concerns about the protection of children and young people. All incidents and actions should be recorded in the incident book. The incident book and all supporting records are kept in the Manager's office.

The incident book and records are accessible to James Lawlor, they are stored securely and confidentiality is maintained.

Staff should record the following information in relation to children and young people:

- Suspensions;
- Concerns;
- Worrying observations;
- Behavioural changes;
- Actions and outcomes.

DEALING WITH A DISCLOSURE

- Stay calm and listen to the child/young person, allow him or her enough time to say what s/he needs to say;
- Don't use leading questions or prompt details;
- Reassure the child/young person but do not promise to keep anything secret;
- Don't make the child/young person repeat the details unnecessarily;
- Explain to the child/young person what will happen next (explanation should be age-appropriate).

REPORTING PROCEDURES

- The reporting procedure has been made known and is accessible to all staff;
- The person who expresses the concern should be involved and kept informed;
- Actions and outcomes must be noted;
- Record all details, including the date, time and people involved in the concern or disclosure and the facts in the incidence book (kept in the front office)
- Information recorded should be factual. Any opinions should be supported by facts;
- Inform the Designated Liaison Person or his or her deputy, if unavailable;
- The most appropriate person should discuss the concern or consult with primary carers. Parents, carers or responsible adults should be made aware of a report to the Health Service Executive unless it is likely to put the child/young person at further risk;
- The Designated Liaison Person may contact the Health Service Executive Duty Social Work Department for an informal consultation prior to making a report;
- Information will be shared on a strictly 'need to know' basis
- If there are reasonable grounds for concern as outlined above, the Designated Liaison Person will contact the Duty Social Worker in the Health Service Executive area using the standard reporting form available from the Health Service Executive. Reports to the Duty Social Worker can be made verbally initially and then followed by the standard reporting form. Reports should be made to the Health Service Executive without delay;
- If the Designated Liaison Person or Deputy Designated Liaison Person is not available, contact the local Duty Social Worker of the Health Service Executive directly;
- In case of emergencies outside of Health Service Executive Social Work Department hours, contact the Gardaí. In situations that threaten the immediate safety of a child/ young person, it may be necessary to contact the Gardaí.

Narrative 4 (Ireland) – CHILD PROTECTION POLICY

- Narrative 4 (Ireland) cannot guarantee total confidentiality where the best interests of the child or young person are at risk;
- Primary carers, children and young people have a right to know if personal information is being shared and/or a report is being made to the Health Service Executive, unless doing so could put the child/young person at further risk;
- Images of a child/young person will not be used for any reason without the consent of the parent/carer (however, we cannot guarantee that cameras/videos will not be used at public performances);
- Procedures will be put in place in relation to the use of images of children/young people;

Definition and Recognition of Child Abuse ²

2.1 Types of child abuse

1. 2.1.1 This chapter outlines the principal types of child abuse and offers guidance on how to recognise such abuse. Child abuse can be categorised into four different types: neglect, emotional abuse, physical abuse and sexual abuse. A child may be subjected to one or more forms of abuse at any given time. More detail on each type of abuse is given in Appendix 1.
2. 2.1.2 In the Children First: National Guidance, ‘a child’ means a person under the age of 18 years, excluding a person who is or has been married.

2.2 Definition of ‘neglect’

1. 2.2.1 Neglect can be defined in terms of an omission, where the child suffers significant harm or impairment of development by being deprived of food, clothing, warmth, hygiene, intellectual stimulation, supervision and safety, attachment to and affection from adults, and/or medical care.
2. 2.2.2 Harm can be defined as the ill-treatment or the impairment of the health or development of a child. Whether it is significant is determined by the child’s health and development as compared to that which could reasonably be expected of a child of similar age.
3. 2.2.3 Neglect generally becomes apparent in different ways over a period of time rather than at one specific point. For example, a child who suffers a series of minor injuries may not be having his or her needs met in terms of necessary supervision and safety. A child whose height or weight is significantly below average may be being deprived of adequate nutrition. A child who consistently misses school may be being deprived of intellectual stimulation.
4. 2.2.4 The threshold of significant harm is reached when the child’s needs are neglected to the extent that his or her well-being and/or development are severely affected.

2.3 Definition of ‘emotional abuse’

2.3.1 Emotional abuse is normally to be found in the relationship between a parent/carer and a child rather than in a specific event or pattern of events. It occurs when a child’s developmental need for affection, approval, consistency and security are not met. Unless other forms of abuse are present, it is rarely manifested in terms of physical signs or symptoms. Examples may include:

1. (i) the imposition of negative attributes on a child, expressed by persistent criticism, sarcasm, hostility or blaming;
2. (ii) conditional parenting in which the level of care shown to a child is made contingent on his or her behaviours or actions;
3. (iii) emotional unavailability of the child’s parent/carer;

²• CHILDREN FIRST: National Guidance for the Protection and Welfare of Children (2011)

Narrative 4 (Ireland) Child Protection Policy - July 2021

4. (iv) unresponsiveness of the parent/carer and/or inconsistent or inappropriate expectations of the child;
5. (v) premature imposition of responsibility on the child;
6. (vi) unrealistic or inappropriate expectations of the child's capacity to understand something or to behave and control himself or herself in a certain way;
7. (vii) under- or over-protection of the child;
8. (viii) failure to show interest in, or provide age-appropriate opportunities for, the child's cognitive and emotional development;

Chapter 2: Definition and Recognition of Child Abuse

9. (ix) use of unreasonable or over-harsh disciplinary measures;
10. (x) exposure to domestic violence;
11. (xi) exposure to inappropriate or abusive material through new technology.

2.3.2 Emotional abuse can be manifested in terms of the child's behavioural, cognitive, affective or physical functioning. Examples of these include insecure attachment, unhappiness, low self-esteem, educational and developmental underachievement, and oppositional behaviour. The threshold of significant harm is reached when abusive interactions dominate and become typical of the relationship between the child and the parent/carer.

2.4 Definition of 'physical abuse'

2.4.1 Physical abuse of a child is that which results in actual or potential physical harm from an interaction, or lack of interaction, which is reasonably within the control of a parent or person in a position of responsibility, power or trust. There may be single or repeated incidents.

Physical abuse can involve:

1. (i) severe physical punishment;
2. (ii) beating, slapping, hitting or kicking;
3. (iii) pushing, shaking or throwing;
4. (iv) pinching, biting, choking or hair-pulling;
5. (v) terrorising with threats;
6. (vi) observing violence;
7. (vii) use of excessive force in handling;
8. (viii) deliberate poisoning;
9. (ix) suffocation;
10. (x) fabricated/induced illness (see Appendix 1 for details);
11. (xi) allowing or creating a substantial risk of significant harm to a child.

2.5 Definition of 'sexual abuse'

2.5.1 Sexual abuse occurs when a child is used by another person for his or her gratification or sexual arousal, or for that of others. Examples of child sexual abuse include:

1. (i) exposure of the sexual organs or any sexual act intentionally performed in the presence of the child;
2. (ii) intentional touching or molesting of the body of a child whether by a person or object for the purpose of sexual arousal or gratification;
3. (iii) masturbation in the presence of the child or the involvement of the child in an act of masturbation;
4. (iv) sexual intercourse with the child, whether oral, vaginal or anal;
5. (v) sexual exploitation of a child, which includes inciting, encouraging, propositioning, requiring or permitting a child to solicit for, or to engage in, prostitution or other sexual acts. Sexual exploitation also occurs when a child is involved in the exhibition, modeling or posing for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or sexual act, including its recording (on film, video tape or other media) or the manipulation, for those purposes, of the image by computer or other means. It may also include showing sexually explicit material to children, which is often a feature of the 'grooming' process by perpetrators of abuse;

(vi) consensual sexual activity involving an adult and an underage person. In relation to child sexual abuse, it should be noted that, for the purposes of the criminal law, the age of consent to sexual intercourse is 17 years for both boys and girls. An Garda Síochána will deal with the criminal aspects of the case under the relevant legislation.

2.5.2 It should be noted that the definition of child sexual abuse presented in this section is not a legal definition and is not intended to be a description of the criminal offence of sexual assault.

2.6 Recognising child neglect or abuse

2.6.1 Child neglect or abuse can often be difficult to identify and may present in many forms. A list of indicators of child abuse is contained in Appendix 1. No one indicator should be seen as conclusive in itself of abuse. It may indicate conditions other than child abuse. All signs and symptoms must be examined in the context of the child's situation and family circumstances.

2.7 Guidelines for recognition

1. 2.7.1 The ability to recognise child abuse can depend as much on a person's willingness to accept the possibility of its existence as it does on their knowledge and information. There are commonly three stages in the identification of child neglect or abuse:

1. (i) considering the possibility;
2. (ii) looking out for signs of neglect or abuse;
3. (iii) recording of information.

Stage 1: Considering the possibility

2. 2.7.2 The possibility of child abuse should be considered if a child appears to have suffered a suspicious injury for which no reasonable explanation can be offered. It should also be considered if the child seems distressed without obvious reason or displays persistent or new behavioural problems. The possibility of child abuse should also be considered if the child displays unusual or fearful responses to parents/carers or older children. A pattern of ongoing neglect should also be considered even when there are short periods of improvement.

Stage 2: Looking out for signs of neglect or abuse

3. 2.7.3 Signs of neglect or abuse can be physical, behavioural or developmental. They can exist in the relationships between children and parents/carers or between children and other family members/other persons. A cluster or pattern of signs is more likely to be indicative of neglect or abuse. Children who are being abused may hint that they are being harmed and sometimes make direct disclosures. Disclosures should always be taken very seriously and should be acted upon, for example, by informing the HSE Children and Family Services. The child should not be interviewed in detail about the alleged abuse without first consulting with the HSE Children and Family Services. This may be more appropriately carried out by a social worker or An Garda Síochána. Less obvious signs could be gently explored with the child, without direct questioning. Play situations, such as drawing or story-telling, may reveal information.

4. 2.7.4 Some signs are more indicative of abuse than others. These include:

1. (i) disclosure of abuse by a child or young person;
2. (ii) age-inappropriate or abnormal sexual play or knowledge;
3. (iii) specific injuries or patterns of injuries;
4. (iv) absconding from home or a care situation;
5. (v) attempted suicide;

Chapter 2: Definition and Recognition of Child Abuse

6. (vi) underage pregnancy or sexually transmitted disease;
7. (vii) signs in one or more categories at the same time. For example, signs of developmental delay, physical injury and behavioural signs may together indicate a pattern of abuse.
5. 2.7.5 Many signs of abuse are non-specific and must be considered in the child's social and family context. It is important to be open to alternative explanations for physical or behavioural signs of abuse.

Stage 3: Recording of information

6. 2.7.6 If neglect or abuse is suspected and acted upon, for example, by informing the HSE Children and Family Services, it is important to establish the grounds for concern by obtaining as much information as possible. Observations should be accurately recorded and should include dates, times, names, locations, context and any other information that may be relevant. Care should be taken as to how such information is stored and to whom it is made available.

2.8 Children with additional vulnerabilities

2.8.1 Certain children are more vulnerable to abuse than others. Such children include those with disabilities, children who are homeless and those who, for one reason or another, are separated from their parents or other family members and who depend on others for their care and protection. The same categories of abuse – neglect, emotional abuse, physical abuse and sexual abuse – are applicable, but may take a slightly different form. For example, abuse may take the form of deprivation of basic rights, harsh disciplinary regimes or the inappropriate use of medications or physical restraints (see also Chapter 8).

2.9 Fatal child abuse

1. 2.9.1 In the tragic circumstances where a child dies as a result of abuse or neglect, there are four important aspects to be considered: criminal, child protection, bereavement and notification.
2. 2.9.2 Criminal aspects: This is the responsibility of An Garda Síochána and they must be notified immediately. The Coroner must also be notified and his or her instructions complied with in relation to post-mortems and other relevant matters.
3. 2.9.3 Child protection aspects: These will be particularly relevant if there are other children in the family/ in the same situation, and will therefore require immediate intervention by the HSE Children and Family Services to assess risk.
4. 2.9.4 Bereavement aspects: The bereavement needs of the family must be respected and provided for and all family members should be given an opportunity to grieve and say goodbye to the deceased child.
5. 2.9.5 Notification aspects: The HSE should notify the death of a child to the National Review Panel and to the Health Information and Quality Authority in accordance with the HIQA's Guidance for the Health Service Executive for the Review of Serious Incidents, including deaths of children in care (HIQA, 2010):
 - all deaths of children in care, including natural causes;
 - all deaths of children known to the child protection system;
 - serious incidents involving a child in care or known to the child protection services.

Managers and staff should cooperate fully with any review undertaken to establish the facts of the case and any actions that should be taken, to identify learning that will
